

How do I check that IIS is running before I install Exaquantum?

You need to check that the IIS Admin service has been started. From the Admin Tools option in the Control Panel select Services and make sure that IIS Admin Service is started. We recommend that this service is set to Automatic so that it starts up automatically after an interruption.